Resettlement in South America			M	ARKED FOR INDEXING

As indicated in para 3				DEXING CAN BE JUDGED QUALIFIED HQ. DESK ONLY

- 1. In the interest of increasing and improving KUBARK's capabilities with respect to the general problem of disposal, it is requested that HARVARD broaden its present pattern of activities to include resettlement cases for South America. Headquarters is now in a position to support such an effort, as outlined below.
- On the basis of recently acquired information concerning immigration possibilities in certain South American countries, it appears practicable to channel selected HARVARD resettlement cases to that area. To assist HARVARD in determining which cases might appropriately fall in this category, we are enclosing material containing pertinent information on certain South American countries. This material is designed to serve only as a guide -- a ready reference for initial selection of candidates. Once the preliminary selection has been made, HARVARD should follow these procedures:
  - a. Inform headquarters of intention to resettle specific case in South America, citing individual's desires, professional qualifications, language abilities and character assessment;
  - b. After examining the case, headquarters will attempt to arrange an employment commitment as well as sponsorship through the home office of a U.S. controlled firm in the country of intended immigration;
  - c. Upon receipt of notification from headquarters that the problem of employment and sponsorship has been resolved, HARVARD should initiate the formal filing of applicant's petition for an immigrant visa, in accordance with required procedures. (Headquarters will pouch summaries of immigration procedures for South American countries as required.)
  - d. Where possible, HARVARD should provide Spanish language training for all candidates who lack such knowledge.
- 3. The procedures outlined above are obviously not intended to be unalterable rules, applicable in every case. They should be regarded as a basis for immediate discussion and planning. HARVARD's comments on this matter are requested.
- 4. For your information, headquarters is also exploring the possibilities of establishing, through liaison channels, an agreed procedure for submitting KUBARK sponsored resettlement cases to Australia. It is envisaged that such an agreement would be similar to the arrangement which KUBARK now has with the Canadian authorities. Headquarters will keep you informed of developments in this matter.

5. In view of the growing problem posed by the increasing number of disposal cases requiring continued KUBARK attention, it is felt that a serious effort must be made to find new outlets for the resettlement of terminated agents, defectors, and escapees of interest to KUBARK. If each resettlement case is considered in broad geographical terms-with the emphasis on the suitability of the individual for a given area-the prospects of effecting final, satisfactory resettlement should increase measurably. The important factors to be taken into consideration in determining the suitability of a resettlement case for a particular area are, of course, employment skills, ethnic origin, language qualifications, as well as the temperament and character of the individual -- all in relation to conditions existing in the area itself. This is the objective-to place KUBARK's world-wide resettlement efforts on a more systematic. efficient basis. It is hoped that by affording itself a wider range of choice as to disposal areas, KUBARK will encounter fewer difficult, embarrassing situations than has hitherto been the case.
